Indiana Farm Bureau PAC Endorses Murphy for Congress

Indianapolis, IN--After meeting with all the major challengers to Dan Burton, the Indiana Farm Bureau ELECT, the political action committee of the Indiana Farm Bureau, voted to endorse Mike Murphy in his bid for Indiana's 5th Congressional District seat. Those who voted cited Mike's leadership, his agriculture plan, and persistence as all factors in the decision to endorse his candidacy.

"Our committee interviewed the major candidates in this race and voted to endorse Mike Murphy due to his commitment to agriculture," said Mark Nigh, chairman of CD5 ELECT and president of the Shelby County Farm Bureau. "He has a well-thought-out plan regarding ag policy and has a great record of working with Indiana Farm Bureau."

"Mike Murphy took the time to meet with me at my farm and, from my understanding, with all the other county Farm Bureau presidents within the congressional district," added Eric Wright, president of the Grant County Farm Bureau. "That level of commitment went a long way toward winning our committee's support. Murphy is committed to being responsive to the voters - he's proven that he is a leader who listens."

Indiana Farm Bureau is the state's largest farm organization, with 280,000 members including 80,000 farmer members throughout the state.

"Endorsements like these are what help win elections. I applaud the courage of the Farm Bureau for standing up against the incumbent and opting to endorse new and experienced leadership to help Hoosier farmers in Washington. I am humbled by their gesture. Farmers are the heart and soul of Indiana," Mike Murphy said.
